Description

A 2027 PJ 7 x 14 ft high side dump trailer built for excavation spoil — 48-inch walls, a 10-gauge floor and 9,770 lbs of payload under a 14K GVWR.

Digging generates more material than it takes to backfill, and the difference has to leave the site.

Forty-eight-inch side walls give you roughly 14 cubic yards of box on a 14-foot trailer, so a footer or a trench spoil pile moves in fewer runs.

Know where your limit is. Dry dirt and clay are heavy. You will reach the 9,770 lb payload at around four yards, with the box a third full, so on excavation work this trailer is weight-limited rather than volume-limited. The tall sides still earn their keep on the light end of the job — brush, stumps, form lumber, broken block — where a 24-inch box would be full and nowhere near heavy.

Ten-gauge floor over a C-channel frame. Six-inch C-channel mainframe, 3-inch crossmembers on 16-inch centers, 10-gauge steel floor. This is the part that matters when a bucket drops fill in from height rather than laying it in.

Equipment ramp kit included. These are equipment ramps, rated for machines — a Dingo or similar compact utility loader, a skid steer, a mini excavator, a medium tractor. Haul the machine to the dig and the spoil away from it without a second trailer.

Split spreader gate. Swing it open for a full dump, or latch the top and meter material out the bottom to backfill along a trench instead of dropping it all in one place.

Running gear. 12V hydraulic pump and scissor hoist. Dual 7,000 lb axles with electric brakes on both, EZ-lube hubs, radial tires, LED lighting. D-rings in the bed and stake pockets down the sides, so the same trailer hauls a compactor or a mini excavator between dump runs. 2-5/16 in adjustable coupler. Tarp kit included.

Specs. 168 in x 83 in bed, 48 in sides, 14,000 lb GVWR, 4,230 lbs empty, 9,770 lb payload, roughly 14 cubic yards.

Towing. Three-quarter-ton or better with a brake controller. Loaded out this is an 18,000 lb combination.
