Description

A 2027 PJ 7 x 14 ft high side dump trailer for tree work and firewood — 48-inch walls, about 14 cubic yards, ramp kit and tarp kit included.

Brush and chips are the definition of bulky and light. A 24-inch dump trailer is heaped and overflowing long before it is anywhere near heavy, and half the load ends up on the road. Four-foot walls hold roughly 14 cubic yards, which is a real day of clearing in one trip.

Chips and brush fill it, rounds weigh it down. Wood chips run light enough that you can fill this box to the rail and still sit under the 9,770 lb payload. Green hardwood rounds are the opposite — a cord of green oak is close to 5,000 lbs, so two cords puts you at capacity with the box only partly full. Split and seasoned wood sits between the two.

Tarp kit included. Chips and leaves blow out of an open box at highway speed. The tarp is standard on this unit rather than something you add later.

Equipment ramp kit included. These are equipment ramps, rated for machines — a Dingo or similar compact utility loader, a skid steer, a mini excavator, a medium tractor. Take the machine to the lot clearing, then haul the brush out on the same trailer.

Built for abuse. Six-inch C-channel mainframe, 3-inch crossmembers on 16-inch centers, 10-gauge steel floor. Dropping rounds and dragging brush across a bed is hard on sheet metal; this is the heavier build.

Split spreader gate. Swing it wide to clear brush in one dump, or latch the top and spread chips in a controlled band along a bed line as you pull forward — useful when the chips are the mulch.

Running gear. 12V hydraulic pump with deep cycle battery driving a scissor hoist. Dual 7,000 lb axles with electric brakes on both, EZ-lube hubs, radial tires, all-weather wiring harness, LED lighting, D-rings in the bed, stake pockets down the sides, 2-5/16 in adjustable coupler.

Specs. 168 in x 83 in bed, 48 in sides, 14,000 lb GVWR, 4,230 lbs empty, 9,770 lb payload.

Towing. Three-quarter-ton or better with a brake controller.
