Description

The STIHL MS 250 Chainsaw features a great power-to-weight ratio with a 45.4 cc engine, an ergonomic design, and is built for tough tasks and reliable performance. Experience cutting excellence with STIHL.
The STIHL MS 250 is a versatile gas chainsaw built for cutting firewood and handling a variety of property maintenance tasks. Its excellent power-to-weight ratio delivers a strong balance of performance and maneuverability, making it well suited for homeowners tackling everything from small tree felling and limb removal to general cleanup.
Designed for convenience as well as performance, the MS 250 features a durable .325" cutting attachment for dependable cutting power. Side-mounted chain tensioning allows for quick, easy adjustments, while the easy-access air filter cover simplifies routine maintenance. A single-lever master control combines the choke, throttle lockout, and on/off switch into one easy-to-use control.

Combining reliable performance with practical, user-friendly features, the MS 250 is a dependable choice for everyday cutting tasks around the home.
